

NCJW is strongly committed to the historic Roe vs. Wade Supreme Court decision which had its 38th anniversary this year. While majority of Americans support the substance of the decision, the past 38 years have been marked by many attacks against a woman's ability to make personal reproductive health choices. Today a woman's access to a legal abortion has been eroded by legislation at the federal and state level, government policies and court decisions. The Supreme Court's 2007 ruling on partial birth abortion ban and aggressive anti-choice forces contribute to these setbacks by restricting abortions.
