

Daytime Branch hit the ground running with our incredible Women of Influence opening program, and we have not slowed down since. Daytime Branch is most fortunate to have an immensely talented and dedicated group of women.

- Our programming, book club, and special events have been highly successful in attracting current and new members.
- Our PR, internal and external, has kept our members well informed about how they can be involved and has resulted in wonderful attendance at our meetings and events.
- To date, thanks to the hard work of Daytime Branch's membership team, we've gained one new life member and 17 new annual members.
- Through their work in all our community service projects, Daytime Branch volunteers consistently demonstrate their commitment to tikun olam.
- Evelyn Brass, along with an outstanding committee of many volunteers, put together our first mah-jongg tournament that was a resounding success. It was a day that was enjoyed by all and also netted funds to enable us to continue making a difference in the lives of women, children, and families.
- Eighteen volunteers committed their time and energy to making Girl Power Zoo Day, our newest community service project, chaired by Sherry Feldman, (see article), a huge success.

Both Evelyn and Sherry were recognized at the November board meeting for their creativity and hard work in developing, organizing, and coordinating these two very special events.

Our extraordinary board of movers and shakers, through their talent, creativity, and commitment, move NCJW's mission forward and, because of them, Daytime Branch is thriving. A huge thank you from each of us to each of you.
